1. Marcia explained to her friend that she couldn’t go to the movies because she was volunteering at the beach cleanup, and then dropping off some donations to Goodwill. She added, “When I get home I’m baking cookies to bring to the nursing home, hey... maybe you’d like to come decorate them with me!”

2. Sally rushed in the classroom door three seconds before the bell rang. It wasn’t hard for her to take off her coat because she only had time to put one sleeve on in the car. She brought all her books to her desk, but then realized she had left her homework on the counter as she ran out the door... and her lunchbox – she would have to buy lunch... for the third time this week.

3. Bob was a new student, but you’d never know it was his first day at school. He had already made three friends at his bus stop, met two people at breakfast in the cafeteria, and introduced himself to the hall monitor. When he walked in the classroom door, he greeted his teacher and asked if he could have a few minutes to introduce himself to the class.
