Quite often sarcasm is mistaken for irony; however, sarcasm is a form of irony which uses sharp wit to highlight the obviousness, stupidity, or annoyance-factor of a situation. One main difference between irony and sarcasm is that irony is generally observed and sarcasm is generally created.
Quite often sarcasm is mistaken for irony; however, sarcasm is a form of irony which uses sharp wit to highlight the obviousness, stupidity, or annoyance-factor of a situation. One main difference between irony and sarcasm is that irony is generally observed and sarcasm is generally created.
Quite often sarcasm is mistaken for irony; however, sarcasm is a form of irony which uses sharp wit to highlight the obviousness, stupidity, or annoyance-factor of a situation. One main difference between irony and sarcasm is that irony is generally observed and sarcasm is generally created.
Verbal Irony

Occurs when a person says or writes one thing and means another

OR

When someone uses words to convey a meaning that is the opposite of the literal meaning.
Situational Irony

Occurs when there is a situation where actions have an effect that is opposite from what was intended, which causes the outcome to be different than what was expected.
Dramatic Irony

Occurs when the meaning of the situation is understood by the audience but not by the characters in a play.

You MUST have an audience for dramatic irony!